Chapter 1 by Kenzawenza

Journal Entry One

It will be worth it. When it's over and done. It has to be done. Being the leader of these people meant you have to make the hard decisions. Like mass murdering almost all of the people you are supposed to save.

Because you have to. Because if not them, everyone on Earth will die. I am considered the bad guy right now. Because I will soon be responsible for the deaths of thousands of people. But let's face it, this is not an action movie.

Not everyone can be saved.

It's like they say;
It's for the greater good.

have months or years. From this moment on I will not stop working until the deed had been done.

People will say I'm insane, a mad scientist. What about these innocent lives? Their families? Their loved ones? I feel bad for those people. Their fate would be infinitely worse if the coming events were not seen to.

It's for the greater good.

Chapter 3 by Harriet Jones, MP, Flydale North

Journal Entry 3

The Deed is only one week away. The closer I get to the date, the more conflicted I become.

It is easy to make a decision, easy to pick a side when you're only saying words. But to act on them . . . to follow through on those mere words . . . that is the true decision-making process.

It's not just me. Some of the people I have hired are beginning to grumble--a few have quit. The weight of this solution has been crushing. It has been too much for some. I don't blame them, and some days I wish I could run away, too. Most still carry on, but their progress is slowing. They hesitate more.

Was this really the best I could come up with? Is there even another way?

I wish someone could show me a better way than this. Then maybe I'll stop having nightmares that end with a sea of blood and a choir of screams.
